

Using Library Computers - Terms and Conditions

To use the computers in the library you need to be a member of Bolton Libraries, but if this is all you want to do, you can join as an ICT Member only, for which you will have to provide only one proof of identification.

When you use a personal computer provided by Bolton Libraries, you are automatically agreeing to abide by the following terms and conditions:

1. Access is only available to users who produce a current Bolton Libraries ticket and is provided on a self-service basis.
2. Users must adhere to any booking arrangement or any other restrictions imposed by the library on the use of the computer.
3. Users may use only software provided for the purpose by Bolton Libraries and must not alter, amend or delete any of the programmes or settings already resident on the computer's internal fixed disk or in its memory.
4. Bolton Libraries and Bolton MBC or their employees can accept no responsibility for any error or damage to property caused by the equipment nor for any consequential loss or damage to disks, data or programs.
5. Users must pay the current charges for all pages printed including test pages and wastage not caused by printer malfunction.
6. The Library Service cannot accept responsibility for slow network responses, communication failure or the non-availability of any web site. Bolton Libraries cannot be held liable for any losses caused by sending data via its internet terminals.
7. Users are not permitted to distribute, circulate, read or look at any obscene or pornographic material, or any material that is grossly offensive or of an indecent or menacing character.
8. Users must not infringe copyright regulations when downloading, copying or printing.
9. Users may attach media storage devices to suitably equipped computers.
10. Users may not under any circumstances attach any device with processing capability to library computers. These include but are not limited to laptop computers, PDAs, and mobile phones.

In the event of any infringement of these terms and conditions, the librarian has the authority to terminate use of the computer without recompense.
